IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The laying of the rails for the new horse railroad was progressing quite rapidly in this city fifty years ago this week and the road had at that time reached from Franklin square to the machine shop of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad Company on North Main street. A half century ago this week G. A. Jones and H. H. Roath were elected wardens of Christ church at the annual meeting of the parish.

With the exception of the continued work on the horse railroad, the annual meeting of Christ church and the presentation of the drummers' production, the Drummer Boy of Shiloh, by the members of Sedgewick Post, G. A. R., little of note happened in Norwich during that week of fifty years hence.

Extracts from the files of The Bulletin of April 1870, are as follows:

Monday, April 18, 1870—At the annual meeting last Wednesday in Hartford, The Hon. William A. Buckingham of this city was elected president of the board of trustees of the Hartford Insurance Company.

A cry of fire was heard in Broadway hall Friday evening while the public meeting was in session and a large number of those present rushed out to learn that it was one of the alarms raised in the Drummer Boy of Shiloh in process of rehearsal in the room above.

On Tuesday, April 19, 1870—The principal hall of the new mill of the R. A. Taft Manufacturing Company at Taftville is 70 feet long, 75 feet wide and 16 feet high, without a supporting post to be seen. If provided with seats it would accommodate 14,000 people or one-half of the population of the city of Norwich and New London. It is probably the largest unbroken span in the United States.

Friday, April 22, 1870—Residents in some parts of the town peacefully pulled about their collars in washbasins.

It took a team of six mules yesterday to carry a barrel of flour, a coffin and a hoop skirt into the backwoods.

At a school meeting held not far away the other evening it was proposed to vote "verbally" and place each vote in a hat.

Yesterday afternoon an unchained dog of some seven summers straggled a cat and a brick together and threw them off Preston bridge to see if they would float. They wouldn't.

The committee on invitations and reception, who have charge of arranging a programme for the water celebration, met last evening and agreed on a general plan, the details of which will be arranged within two or three days.

Friday, April 23, 1870—The boys will be saddened to learn that the East Great Plain school commences Monday.

The pleasure of throwing stones has been limited by the young elderly people like it.

Recalling the recent accident the committee on invitations and reception, who have charge of arranging a programme for the water celebration, met last evening and agreed on a general plan, the details of which will be arranged within two or three days.

Besides seeking the decree, Mr. Sheldrick also asks for the custody of their five minor children—Myrtle, Francis, Beatrice, Brian and John—all residing with the mother.

The action is brought on the grounds of desertion, it being alleged that Sheldrick deserted his wife on March 6th, 1918. The couple were married Aug. 1, 1902. The case is returnable before the superior court the first Tuesday in May.

About a year ago Sheldrick while stationed at the submarine base at Groton stole an automobile with a companion from the garage of Richard Hendel of New London. The car was driven to Tonawanda, N.
